

CRM Automation Engine

Every time you move a client card in Asana, this system takes over and handles everything automatically — emails, folders, follow-ups, onboarding. You just move the card.

What it does	Watches your Asana board and automatically triggers the right action for every client
Tools used	Asana · Zapier · Gmail · Google Drive
Who benefits	Anyone managing clients who wants follow-ups and onboarding to run on autopilot
How it works	5 automatic paths — each one triggered by which column a card is moved to

What Is This Project?

If you manage clients, you know how much time goes into the small stuff — sending a welcome email, creating a folder, following up when someone goes quiet, or making sure a new client gets their onboarding documents. It's repetitive, easy to forget, and takes your attention away from actual work.

This system connects your Asana project board to a set of automatic workflows. The moment you drag a client's card into a new column, the right action fires instantly — the right email gets sent, the right folder gets created, the right follow-up is scheduled. You just move the card. The system does the rest.

How Does It Work? — Step by Step

Here's the full journey from the moment you move a card, to the moment your client receives the right message:

1

You move a client card in Asana

Your Asana board is set up with columns for each stage of your client journey — things like 'Ready to Start', 'Quoted', 'Approved', and so on. The moment you drag a card into a new column, that's all you need to do.

2

Zapier detects the move instantly

Zapier — the automation tool connecting everything — is watching your Asana board in real time. The second a card moves, Zapier wakes up and checks: which column did it move to? That answer determines everything that happens next.

3

The system picks the right path

There are 5 possible paths — one for each column. The system reads the column name and automatically routes to the correct set of actions. No guessing, no manual selection. The column name is the instruction.

4

The right actions fire automatically

Depending on the path, the system might send an email, create a Google Drive folder, attach a document, or schedule a follow-up. Each path has its own specific sequence of actions that run on their own.

5

Smart checks prevent unnecessary messages

For paths that involve follow-up emails, the system doesn't blindly send message after message. It waits 7 days, checks if the client has replied, and only sends the next email if there's been no response. This keeps your outreach professional and avoids spamming clients who already got back to you.

The 5 Automatic Paths

Each column in your Asana board triggers a completely different set of actions. Here's exactly what happens on each one:

■ READY TO START

New client onboarded

- Creates a dedicated Google Drive folder for the client
- Drops the folder link directly into the Asana card
- Everything organised before work even begins

■ NO RESPONSE

Client has gone quiet

- Sends a friendly check-in email automatically
- Waits 7 days, checks if they've replied
- If no reply — sends a second follow-up
- Waits another 7 days, then sends a final email
- Smart stop: never sends the next email if they've already replied

■ QUOTED

Proposal has been sent

- Sends a proposal follow-up email
- Waits 7 days and checks for a reply
- If still no reply — sends a final closing message
- Smart stop: checks for reply before each send

■ APPROVED

Deal has been won

- Sends a warm welcome email to the client
- Automatically attaches the onboarding PDF
- Client gets everything they need to get started

■ PAID & CLOSED

Project completed and paid

- Reads which service the client purchased
- Automatically sends the right follow-up offer
- Personalised based on what they actually bought

Why does the smart stop matter? Without it, a client who replies on day 3 could still receive the follow-up emails scheduled for day 7 and day 14. The system checks for a reply before every send — so your clients only ever get the message they actually need.

The Tools Working Together

This system is built using four tools that talk to each other automatically. You don't need to log into any of them — they run in the background:

Asana — Your project board

A The starting point. Every action begins the moment you move a client card to a new column. Asana is where you work — the automation watches it silently.

Zapier — The connector

Z Zapier is the engine that links everything together. It detects the card move, reads the column name, and routes the action to the right path. Think of it as the brain of the whole operation.

Gmail — The messenger

G All emails — welcome messages, follow-ups, proposal reminders, and closing messages — are sent through Gmail automatically. They come from your email address and look like you wrote them yourself.

Google Drive — The organiser

G When a new client is ready to start, Google Drive automatically creates a dedicated folder for them. The link to that folder gets saved directly into their Asana card so you never have to go searching for it.

Why This Matters for Your Business

Every task this system handles is something that would otherwise fall on you or your team. Here's what you get back:

No client ever slips through the cracks

- ✓ Every card move triggers the exact right action. Whether it's a welcome email or a folder, nothing gets forgotten — even on your busiest days.

Follow-ups happen automatically

- ✓ You never have to remember to check in with a quiet lead. The system sends the first, second, and final follow-up on a schedule — and stops the moment they reply.

Every client gets the same great experience

- ✓ Because the process is automated, every client goes through the same professional onboarding, the same timely follow-ups, and the same polished communication — regardless of how busy you are.

Your time goes to the work that matters

- ✓ Admin tasks like sending emails, creating folders, and chasing responses happen in the background. You stay focused on delivering great work.

It scales as you grow

- ✓ Whether you have 3 clients or 300, the system handles every single one the same way. No extra effort needed on your end as your business grows.
